Market Minute: Northwest cherries peaking for promotions

By

Ron Pelger

July 6, 2026

This is it — the peak shipping season for Northwest cherries.

Get the premium cherry gems in your weekly ads fast because volume is down this year compared to the bumper crop of the previous two years. Even though the crop is lighter, the Washington cherry quality is superior and they’re ready to be promoted. Many retailers are jumping on the opportunity by entering into timely promotions to drive sales volume while the crop is in its peak range.
