
- Advertisement -

Jim Sahd retiring from Kegel's Produce after 20 years

March 31, 2021

Kegel's Produce, a 70-year-old family-owned business located in Lancaster, PA, announced the retirement of Jim Sahd, who for the last two decades managed the company's accounting department.

In a statement, Kegel's said that Sahd was a fundamental part of the growth of Kegel's during his tenure, guiding the department with a mix of humor, integrity, compassion, commitment, loyalty and a strong work ethic.

"We have had the honor of working with one of the best in the business," according to the statement. "While we are sad to see him go, we remain happy that we had the opportunity to work with him over the years and are glad to see him take advantage of his time in retirement. We deeply value the contributions he made to the company and its employees. There will never be another like Jim and we know his shoes (size 14) will be hard to fill!"

Photo: Jim Sahd, who is retiring from Kegel's Produce after 20 years of leading its accounting department, with company President Suzanne Myers.

Print