Kwik Lok names Maggie Brown director of global supply chain

June 9, 2021

Kwik Lok Corp., headquartered in Yakima, WA, has created a new position, director of global supply chain, to oversee strategic supply chain management with a focus on ethical procurement and sustainability. Maggie Brown, a seasoned procurement professional has accepted the role and will report to Kwik Lok's chief operating officer, Jeff Scott, at Kwik Lok's headquarters.

“By leveraging our global assets and elevating our supply management role to oversee all procurement operations, Kwik Lok will be in a better position to serve our customers and assure that our procurement strategies reflect the values of our organization. We are excited to have Maggie join our team in this role. Her experience in procurement, process improvement, and building functional teams will help us build a center of excellence at Kwik Lok,” said Scott.

Brown has more than 20 years of experience working in procurement and supply chain management. Most recently she was the purchasing and inventory director for Alaffia a clean, green, and fair trade skin and haircare company located in Olympia, WA. Prior to her time at Alaffia, Brown held purchasing and supply chain positions at MicroSeismic in Houston, TX, where she focused on large asset acquisition and facility design and set up, GTSI Corp. in Herndon, VA. She is a Six Sigma Black Belt and is certified in manufacturing leadership by Washington State University.

“I am excited to join Kwik Lok and I look forward to working with a team focused on ethical and sustainable business practices,” said Brown.
