New York Produce Show & Conference kicks off with opening reception

December 15, 2021

The New York Produce Show & Conference, presented by the Eastern Produce Council, is back. Last night's opening reception, which was held at the New York Hilton, allowed industry members to reconnect before the trade show floor opened earlier this morning. The four-day event runs through Dec. 16, giving participants the opportunity to network, attend a trade show with more than 400 companies and enjoy tours of the New York region's vibrant industry.
