Produce industry icon Andy D'Arrigo was 102

July 20, 2026

Andrew (Andy) D'Arrigo, former president of D'Arrigo Bros. Co. of California, has died at the age of 102. He leaves behind a legacy of innovation, leadership and passion for the produce industry.

At age two-and-a-half, Mr. D'Arrigo's smiling face became the iconic image for the company's Andy Boy brand. His picture remains a symbol of the company's focus on quality, freshness and family values.

Feeding America and America's Grow-a-Row expand produce access across New Jersey

By

Nicole Nelson Miller, director, commodity foods - produce, Feeding America

July 20, 2026

When America's Grow-a-Row, a nonprofit providing farm-fresh foods for communities, set out to donate 4 million pounds of fresh produce in 2025 to people experiencing food insecurity, one question stood out: How could more of that food stay in New Jersey and help the communities where it was grown?

The answer came through the power of partnership.

July 17, 2026

Chronic non-communicable diseases (NCDs), primarily cardiovascular diseases, cancers, chronic respiratory diseases, diabetes and obesity, account for approximately 75 percent of all deaths globally and diminish the quality of life for millions. Over 2.1 billion children under the age of 20 are currently affected by NCDs or exposed to their major risk factors. Furthermore, 391 million children aged 5 to 19 years are living with overweight and obesity, a staggering figure that has tripled over the last 25 years.

JJB Family Farms expects record Modi apple crop in 2026

By

Keith Loria

July 17, 2026

The Apple Everyone Loves.

After several years of building awareness around the Modi apple, JJB Family Farms is poised for its biggest season yet. Strong growing conditions, an early harvest and significantly higher production have the Stockton, CA-based grower anticipating a breakout year for its signature apple variety.

The company expects to harvest approximately 5.4 million pounds of Modi apples this season — roughly double last year's crop — providing expanded opportunities for retailers, schools and export markets.
