Turek Farms gearing up for summer sweet corn after wet start to year

By

Chris Koger

June 19, 2026

Cayuga County, where Jason Turek grows sweet corn and other vegetables, broke records for rainfall during the first five months of the year.

At mid-June, however, Turek was relieved when his farm, Turek Farms in King Ferry, received about an inch of rain. Starting in late May through mid-June, the county had been dry. Turek farms in upstate New York's Finger Lakes region, just east of Cayuga Lake, which historically receives enough rain that fields are not irrigated.

Trendspotting: Shopper trust starts in the produce aisle

By

Craig Levitt

June 18, 2026

Cheerios are Cheerios. Oreos are Oreos. No matter where you buy them, they are going to taste the same. We all know winning shoppers and shopper loyalty is cultivated in stores' fresh sections — especially the produce aisle. Just how important are these sections? Pretty darn important, according Logile Inc., a global leader in AI-powered Connected Workforce solutions.
